ADMINISTRATION

Mr. Laing

We proudly present those people who make our school function in a smooth and logical fashion. Perhaps we accept too casually our school's efficient pattern which moves in democratic ways toward high educational ideals and broad concepts. Upon reflection, we realize that their varied and complex activities are indispensable in the intricate educational scheme. We salute our leaders who have given so much — and asked so little.

Miss Wilson

Mr. Legler

Theodore Carlquist . . . "Pardon me while I run three doors down for a conference!"

Anthony Guzowski . . . "Why aren't you out for football? You're big enough to eat hay!"

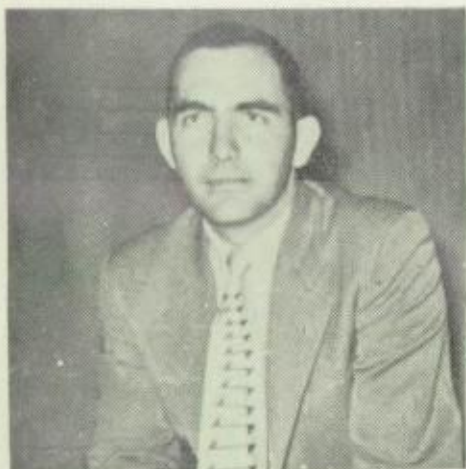

Alice Condon . . . "I won't let you interrupt my class!"

Ethyl Harold . . . "Your manners are atrocious!"

Marion Conkling . . . "People, remember that these acids are to be tested, NOT tasted!"

Lovern Johnson . . . "Math is to be studied and digested, but I think most of you have indigestion!"

Wayne DeMouth . . . "O.K. you rocks, get on the ball."

Russell Guster . . . "When I say come in, I don't mean one at a time!"

Robert King . . . "Class, please dissect the animals, not each other!"

Leon Martin . . . "Twist him like a pretzel and dunk him in the milk bottle!"

Dale McDowell . . . "Oh, how that Lena can eat!"

Esther Quinby . . . "Boys are supposed to be better mathematicians than girls, so why don't you try to prove it?"

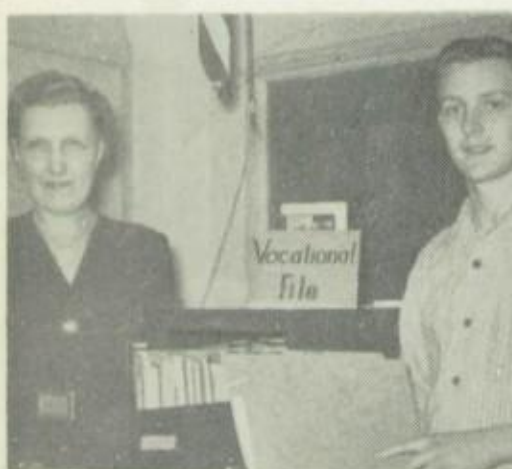

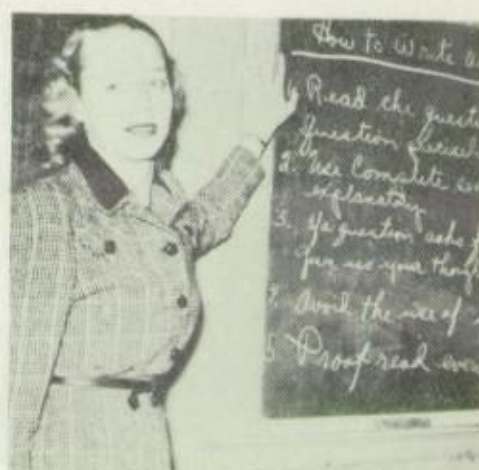

Nancy McGaw . . . "You heard the bell, now turn around and get busy!"

George Sefrit . . . "You milk the cow and curry the horse, NOT curry the cow and milk the horse!"

Helen Melcher . . . "Mess or no mess, you cooked it, you eat it!"

Cecily Sherk . . . "Are you out for the play?"

Alvena Miller . . . "Stop me in a few minutes and we'll take up math."

Robert Stephenson . . . "A darkroom is for developing pictures only, class. Pay attention!"

Richard Palmer . . . "Why does my verbal versatility cause such blankness of mind?"

Harold Weber . . . "You had your fun, now try MY arrangement and put some soul into it!"

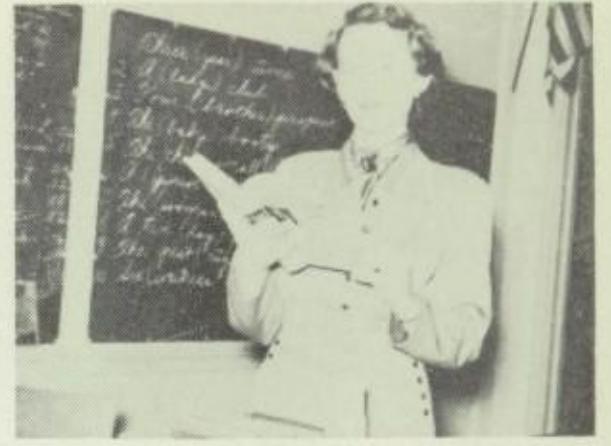

Maxine White . . . "I'd sure hate to have to recommend any of you for a bookkeeping job!"

Carrie Woodford . . . "Ain't ain't a word cause it ain't in the dictionary, so don't use ain't!"

Ella Zumach . . . "Read smoothly, don't butcher it!"

Office Staff

Four people for whom there will always be respect and admiration, for they have aided greatly in the successful management of our school. Our office girls, Barbara and Betty, together with Mrs. Wolfe, the Board Secretary, act as Girl Fridays' to our executive leaders, and, in addition, take care of the numerous calls, letters and other details. Miss Bonstetter, our school nurse, is one of the busiest people we know. She teaches a First Aid course and is responsible for many excellent health films shown in gym classes. Regular physical examinations and vaccinations are a big part of her job as school nurse, and she has managed all this efficiently and successfully.

Student Council

Functioning as the student's voice in school affairs is that illustrious group, the Student Council, whose work during the past years has benefited the entire school. Its projects are many, and require the co-operation of the best of our student leaders. These boys and girls sold at games, threw parties for which they furnished the food and entertainment, and, in their own dignified moments, represented Algona in other towns in the conference. Truly Mrs. Conklin's little organization has been a boon to A. H. S. She deserves a lot of the credit, together with Marian Zeigler, the Council's mild-mannered president, Harriette Brown, a very peppy vice-president, the efficiency-plus secretary, Helen Lenz, and treasurer MaDonna McGuire. The combined efforts of these officers and their sponsors have made this organization an extremely successful one.

SENIORS

Even now, it is hard to realize that this is the end of our four short years of education, recreation, and a score of memories . . . the various modes of transportation the fellows salvaged from the junkyards . . . our star athletes Ray and Opal . . . the first time Bernie was without chewing gum, if anyone can remember diaper-days . . . Claudia's weird plaid pedal-pushers . . . the select group of boys who organized a club to rid the town and the surrounding community of cats and other stray pets . . . the parties we had every time someone was babysitting . . . the agony of waiting for Pete's last note of the "Swing Yell" . . . Janet's ability to promote school spirit in the worst of us . . . the way Andy slept through everything but basketball practice . . . Nancy's agility on the ivories . . . the amateur psychiatrists who tried to cure Iris' complexes . . . Helen's straight "A's" . . . the fun at Career Day and Veisha . . . and, finally, the solemnity of Commencement and Baccalaureate. A few of us joked, and a few cried, but mostly we tried to realize that this was the end of four happy years . . . and silently thanked our parents, teachers and friends for their part in this chapter of our lives.

Class Motto

"Climb far, our goal is the sky, our aim a star"

Class History

On September 6, 1946, we, the Class of 1950, began our impressive march. We shuffled up to the monumental building which was to become symbolic to all of us in the years to come. Once inside we were directed here and there and soon were completely lost among several hundred others, equally lost. This, however, did not hinder our progress. As we look back through the keyholes at the memories locked inside our hearts we see Oops, wrong keyhole! Taking another look, we find the Freshman class entering the smallest door of knowledge. Education isn't the only phase of school life, as we can see: Bill Sparks is searching for a "perfect girl"; Bonnie and Ray are sipping soda from the same straw, and not for economy's sake, either; The Poolroom Sextet, Dutton, Meyer, Reding, Hutchison, Anderson and Rielly are getting "haircuts" via the pinball machine at Barry's; Paul Lindholm and Claudia Pollard, our two young debators, are using their talents to keep Miss Miller off the subject of math; our homeroom geniuses, Pete, Zeke, Dave, Iris and Marilynne, managed to win the Homecoming Window Prize for the class, which is quite unusual for the Freshies.

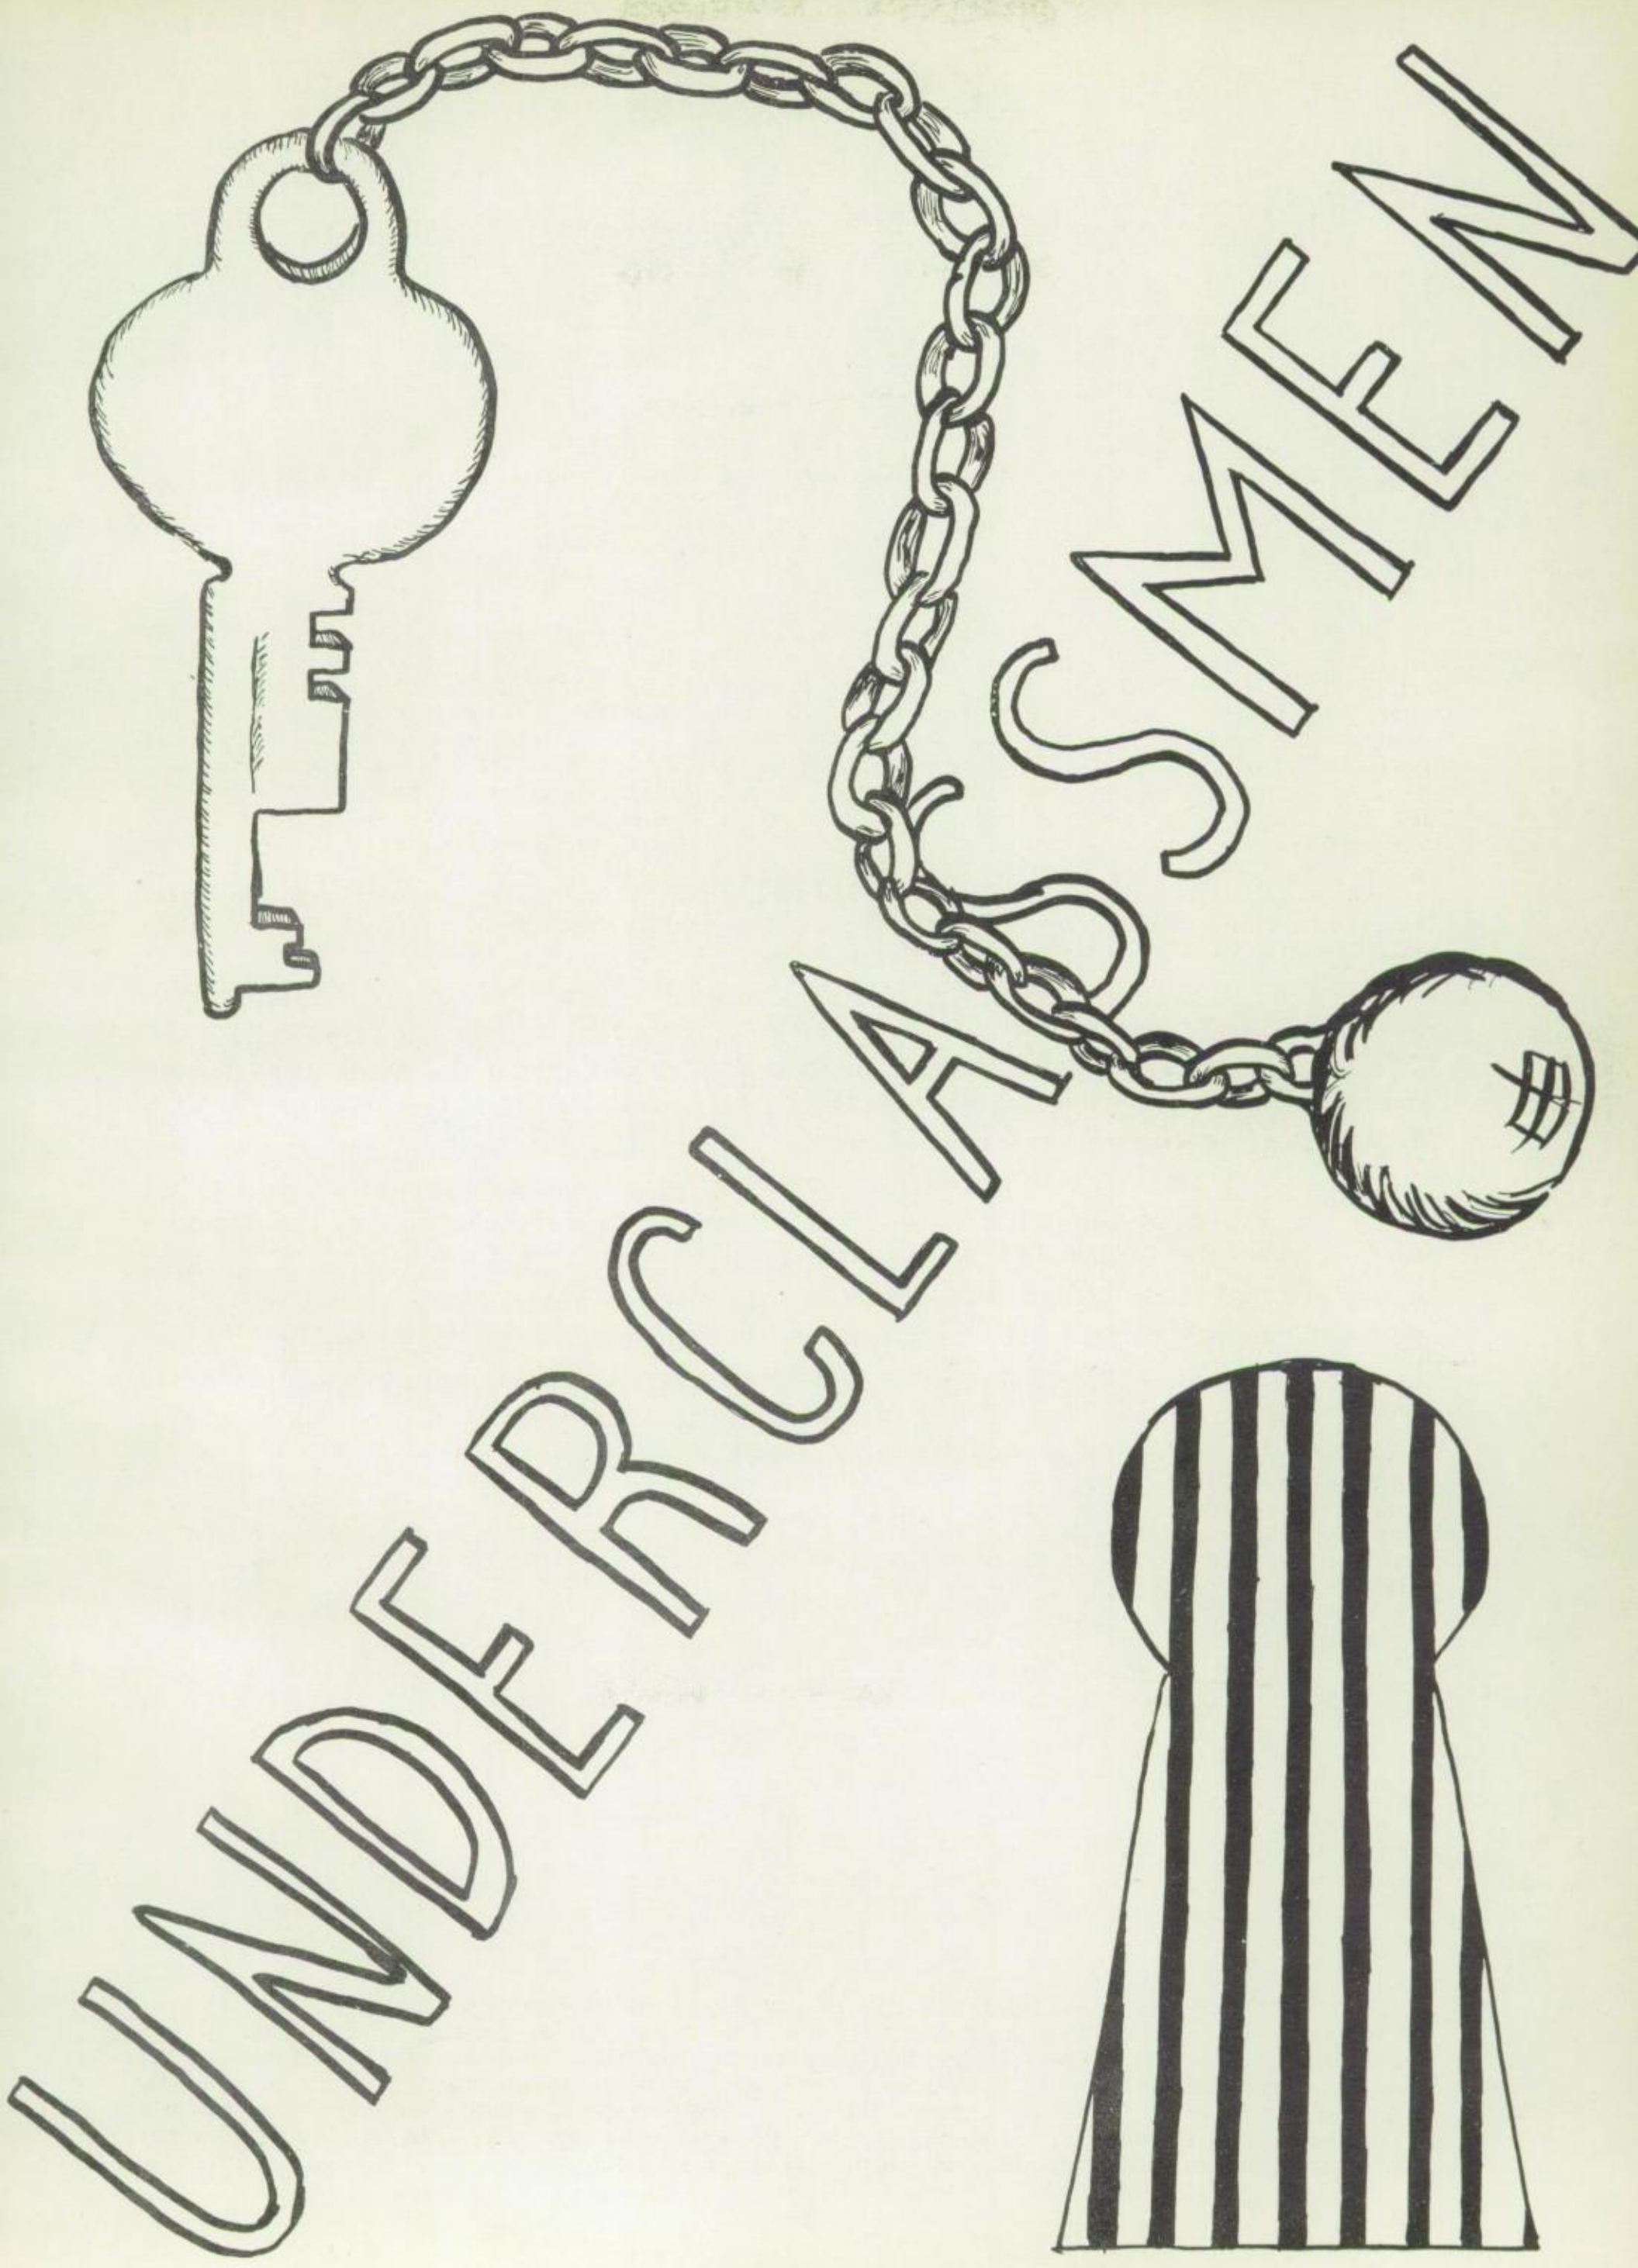

Our scene changes the year is 1947, and a larger door stands before us. As usual, we find Dutton lying across the pinball machine, maybe he's tilted! Ron Hutchings, a new-comer, won fame if not fortune because of the riotous parties he had in his basement. Dramatics invaded the class and lured away several promising young actors and actresses, such as Marilynne Miller, Arlene Johnson, Ted Hutchison, Claudia Pollard, and George Meyer. Another invasion came in the form of Joan "Sunshine" Ballard. The same talent plus a new idea won the class the Homecoming Prize again.

Time passes and a still larger door awaits us, and we gaze upon the records of our busiest but most successful year. We spent the entire year selling everything but the shirts off our backs to raise money for the Prom. The sight of our girls in formals and our fellows in suits banished any doubt as to the success of this expensive but exciting dance. Variety is the spice of life and to provide this variety, we distributed our various abilities thus: brawn and muscle (Ted, Garry, Ray, Joe, Bill, Jerry and Arlen) to the field of sports; brains (Phyllis, Helen, Iris and Irene) to the honor-roll; musical and dramatic talent (Pete, Nancy, Marilynne, Marian, Jack and Harriette) to the various departments. As usual, we won the Homecoming Prize. It must be habit-forming.

A year older a year wiser, we stand on the threshold of a new life. Another year in which to gain experience and then we are on our own. Among those experiences we find Marilynne and Joan on the modeling runway; Janet in the Queen's crown; Marian winning countless honors with her posters; Iris and Helen comparing their grades, relatives, and men; and Nancy, Hutch, and Jack on the stage. Whatever the future brings, these young men and women, together with their friends, will face it bravely, for four wonderful years of education, recreation, and memories cannot help but make their life career a successful one. The key to success, together with our memories, is our gift to the underclassmen.

Class Sponsor

The handiwork of Miss Miller, our sponsor, can be seen in every successful project we have carried out, and the lesson of good manners she has taught us far exceeds the benefits of any etiquette book we may ever read; her Christian outlook on life as a whole, and her tireless energy in helping us build our careers have done more than anything else in making us fit to graduate and take our place in the world today. She is, in every respect, exactly what our parents and friends expect in a counselor of young people. We can never repay the debt of kindness we owe this remarkable woman who gives so much and seeks so little.

Juniors

According to tradition, life as a Junior is supposed to be one big struggle (this is the year when all the other classes sit around and let you do all the work) and it was! Selling at the games proved to be more than a test of your school spirit, you had to keep the popcorn hot, the customers satisfied, and, the profits greater than the losses. Pat Bohn took a rather morbid interest in atomic bombs and was consequently investigated by the Un-American Committee Bob Thompson lent "poundage" to the football line Wendell "Packard" continued to cruise around in his "Chevie" Ronnie Leosch still holds the school record for bluffing through class without studying Lee Colburn and Sharon Putz decided there was safety in number and combined forces Jackie Miller, a future journalist, got in a little practice by winning the "Democracy" contest mix these talents and personalities and you have the makings of a successful class, one that will continue to be at the head of the line.

Sophomores

With two years behind them, these kids are looking forward to the remainder of their term of education. These two years of experience might be the reason for their outstanding records, but we rather think it was due to their own particular talents; for instance, Bill Bryant and Jerry Beamish seem to have the makings of real ballplayers Jack "Smiley" Curtis has proved to be a dead shot with a water pistol, to the alarm of his studyhall seatmates Max Gibson and Shirley Weinter can show the older girls how when it comes to getting a man among the bachelor girls we find a few who seem destined to desert the ranks, namely MaDonna McGuire, Ruthie Seeger, and Chloris Skogstrom in the event that Algona ever has a girls' basketball team we nominate Pattie Van Buren who has done such a swell job of guarding tall Mari-lou Helmers all these years other famous people include the actress, Diane Schaap; Roland Brown, the Roller Drome Attraction; and the Clapsaddle Twins. With material like this, the Sophomore class is sure to continue on its road to fame at A. H. S.

Freshmen

Always in abundance, these boys and girls nevertheless accomplished quite a lot, considering their lack of polish and experience. For instance, Don Cook might be a promising mathematician if he could ever find the right page Shirley Kuchenreuther is still the only one who can spell her last name right Dick Tuttle shows great ability in music Marcia Stillman's collection of Jokes and pranks is growing rapidly Carol Collins has been busy taking roll in Mixed Chorus Daryl Reed and Dennis Orton are still trying to sing tenor, which is like squeezing a grapefruit to get orange juice Shirley Fitch has been out plugging for her bottled cousin, Fitch Dandruff Remover and the only person who studys in the entire studyhall is, of course, Jeanette Sorenson. All of these young people have their ideals, so if some little kid begins to stare at you or follow you around, try to live up to your high calling and serve as an example worth following.

ORGANIZATIONS

Freshman-Sophomore Class Plays

"THE VANISHING PRINCESS"

This little fantasy is an amusing story of the "rags-to-riches" sort — a modern Cinderella who meet her Prince Charming and becomes rich at the same time.

Junior Class Play

"SEVENTEEN IS TERRIFIC"

This little comedy dealt with the everyday problems of a young teenager and his friends and family in relation to that all-important event, the school Prom. Lack of funds, a rival, and the usual amount of misunderstanding makes this play an interesting page out of real life, and the excellent acting and staging made this one of the best plays of this school year.

Senior Class Play

"JANUARY THAW"

Another comedy comparing the hustle and bustle of the city life in contrast with the peace and security of the country. A city family moved to the country in search of antiques, ponys and the oldest house in Connecticut, and found instead that the house was inhabited, and the struggle for the control of this house provides the biggest laugh of the season.

North Central Conference Play

"UGLY DUCKLING"

Directed by Cecily Sherk

This old fairytale, with a few new ideas added, was one of the best ever presented in Algona in a very long time. The excellent casting and direction, together with the superb acting of these young people, brought the drama into life with amazing ease. The play was given three times, the last time being at Iowa City for the Conference Meet, where it received a Superior Rating. Two of the cast received awards for their superior acting; Jack, as the King, and Larry as the Prince. All the time and energy that went into the production of this play was more than paid for in the excellent success of this group for young amateurs, many of whom were on the stage for the first time in their lives. The story itself is one that is difficult to portray with reality, but they accomplished the impossible. Ron Hutchings provided a great deal of amusement in his role as Chancellor, while Ron Peterson furnished the musical talent for the bugler. Algona is becoming increasingly dramatic, it would seem, to judge from the abilities of the latest stars of our little community.

Debate

Under the expert guidance of our famous speech teacher, Richard Palmer, the team competed successfully in the conference and won recognition for the unusual way in which they debated. It seems that they never knew exactly which side they were going to take, but liked the novelty of flipping for their choice. Since a debate trip's success is measured by the length of time the squad can spend on their feet, they hardly ever went to bed. Marilynne won fame for her inimitable rendition of some of Dorothy Parker's work, while Helen and Claudia prefer to remember the handsome time-keepers, judges, and the like.

Spirit Cup

This year, for the first time, the Student Council took part in an assembly for the purpose of gaining a little publicity for the Spirit Cup. It is hoped that this can become an annual affair so that the new students can become acquainted with the purpose, history, and awarding of the cup. The purpose of the cup is to promote a feeling of competition in extra-curricular activities among the classes. The cup was originated in 1941 and is awarded on a standardized system, a designated number of points for each activity ranking first, second, third and fourth. Algona is the only school in the conference with a merit system of this type, and might well be the forerunner of similar ones, judging from the approval voiced by our conference neighbors at a recent meeting.

G. A. A. and Pep

The original purpose of the Girls' Athletic Association was to "stimulate interest in wholesome leisure time activities and to promote the ideals of health and sportsmanship." This club is distinguished by the terrible initiation the old members inflict on the newest additions. Under Miss McGaw's supervision, the girls organized basketball teams, bowling parties, dances, and picnics, and even attempted to teach the boys how to dance. The Pep Club is a part of the group organized to serve as a cheering section for our sports events, and can be distinguished from the crowd by their white sweatshirts with the Pep Club emblem on the backs. It is a comparatively new club, but has increased its membership rapidly, and filled its treasury with the sales of booklets, balloons, paper hats, and swishers.

F. F. A.

A. H. S. can truly take pride in the gigantic strides toward success its F. F. A. chapter made during the four short years since its organization. The spirit with which these young men have pressed ahead reflects the practical philosophy of the youth of today. Before joining, each member must have some productive project, either livestock or crops. The boys work through the various stages: Greenhand, Chapter Farmer, Iowa Farmer, and American Farmer. The first two degrees are issued by the local chapter, the third by the state chapter, and the last by the national chapter. Out of 6,000 members, only 123 received Iowa Farmer degrees this year, and three of these went to Algona boys, Kent Seeley, Dick Weber, and Rich Mawdsley, which is a very good percentage for a school our size. This award is rarely given to a boy still in high school, and Rich should be congratulated on earning his so quickly. The group has given several parties this year, and even entered a winning float in the Homecoming parade, so obviously their talents aren't limited to the field of farming.

Librarians

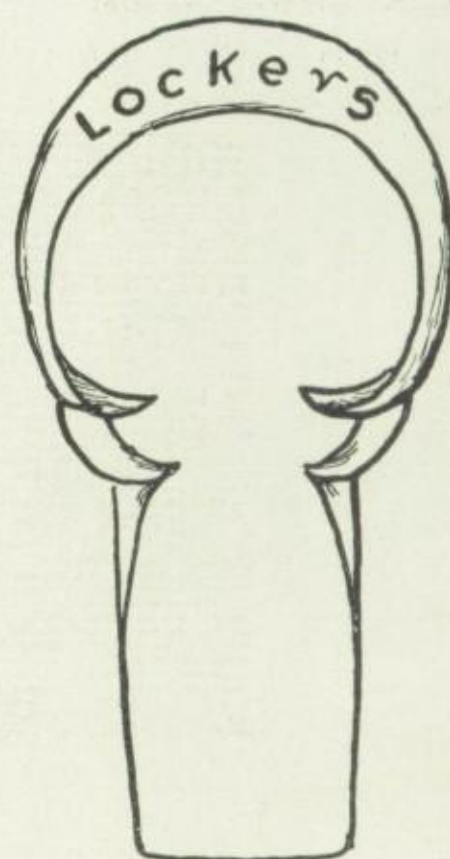

These girls and their supervisor, Miss Wilson, combine efficiency and graciousness in making available to us the facilities of a well-stocked, modern library. Miss Wilson, in her capacity as head librarian, is responsible for the selection and ordering of all books and magazines. Her only assistants are the girls who volunteer to spend their free periods working in the library. These girls are assigned shelves of books and must keep them dusted and in order. Periodical inventories are taken to replace old books and to mend the damaged ones. This year the librarians are working towards a pin and must have at least 750 points to qualify. They earn their points working at the desk, cataloging new books, cleaning their shelves, and helping with the inventories. As democratic as any other student body, the group elects its own officers, and these officers have aided greatly in the orderly operation of our school library.

SPRINT

Football

Hard work and the determination to win brought the Bulldogs out on the top of the Conference heap at the end of one of their most successful seasons. The rest of the North Central Conference paid little attention to the talented, towering, victory-minded coach, Tony Guzowski, but after a few savage encounters with the team of his creation, they experienced an about-face in opinion. Tony, a newcomer, was faced with a problem universal in small schools, that of lack of material. Last year's graduation had taken most of the first string, and the out-look for the 1949-50 season wasn't very bright. Upon his arrival, Tony threw out the Single-Wing and introduced the "T" formation, complete with sleight-of-hand and dazzling deception.

Algona's sports-minded citizens certainly went all out for the gridders this year, and as a result, the team trained on T-bone steaks.

When interviewed last spring, Tony was told that things didn't look too good for the team, but it didn't take long for him to illustrate that his Iowa U. training was just what Algona needed.

Experts are still wondering what happened, but Algonians are assuming their "I-told-you-so" expressions while they sit back on their easy chairs remembering all those cold nights and the hard benches they endured when they spent their energy cheering the boys to even greater success. The Red and Black Marauders can truly be proud of their record.

HOMECOMING QUEEN JANET REDING

Homecoming

The prowess of a determined Bulldog team, plus the encouragement of a school-spirited community, proved to be superior to both the favored Clarion team and a cold, miserable wind.

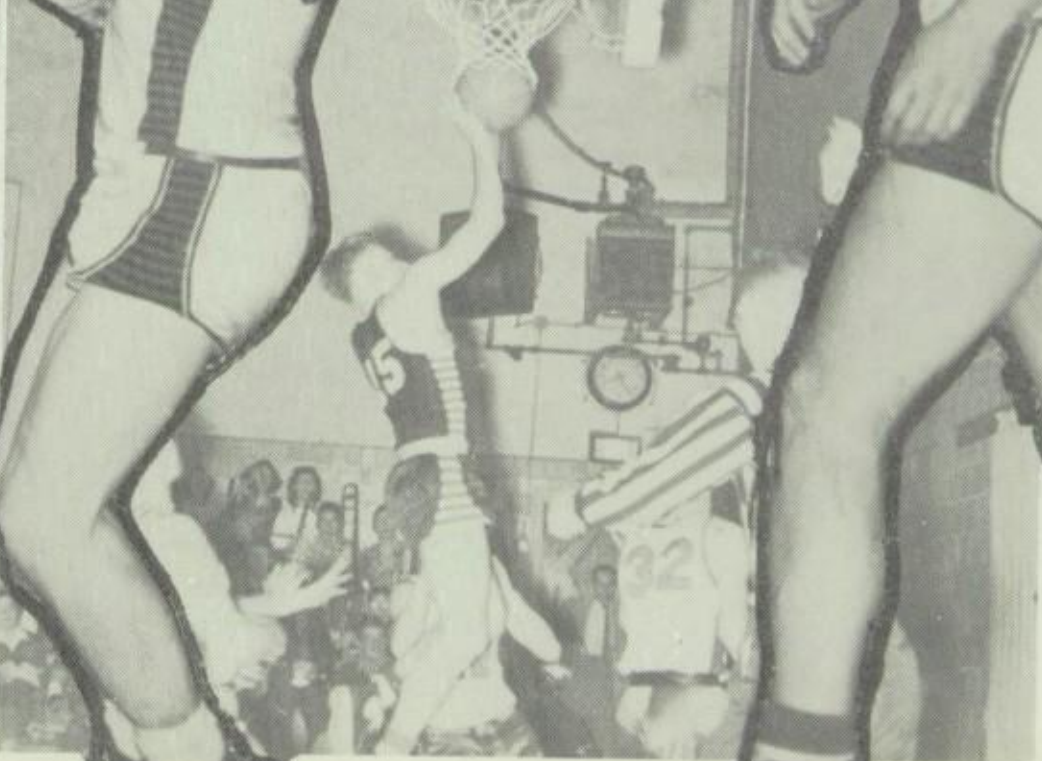

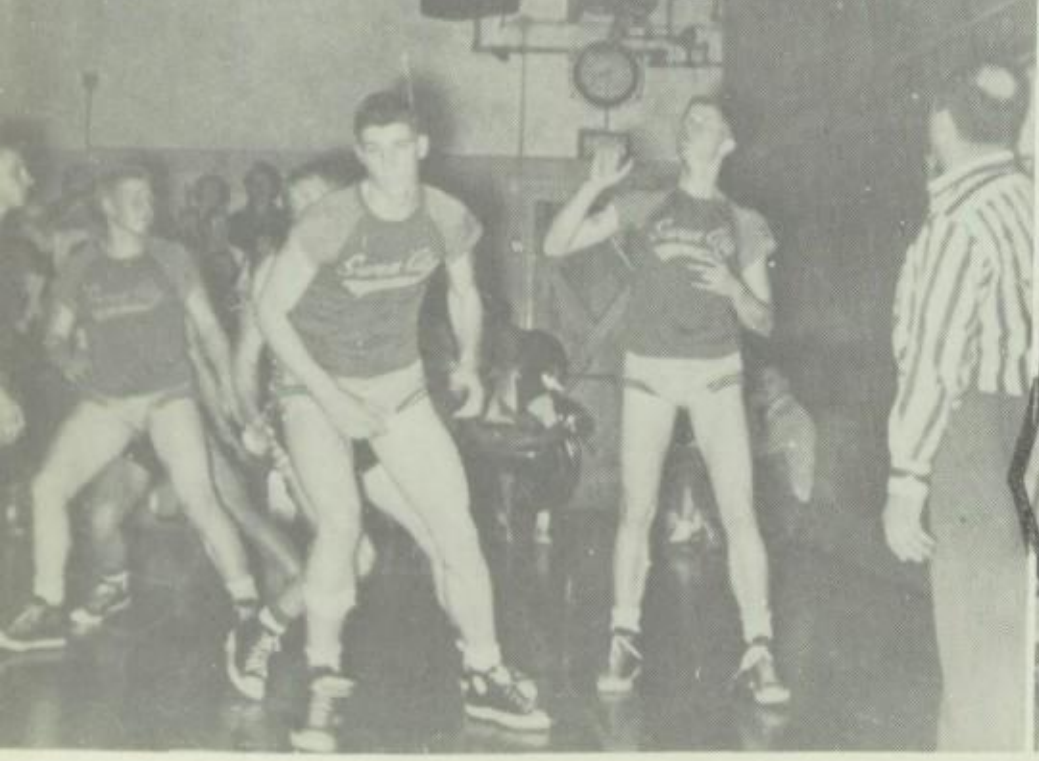

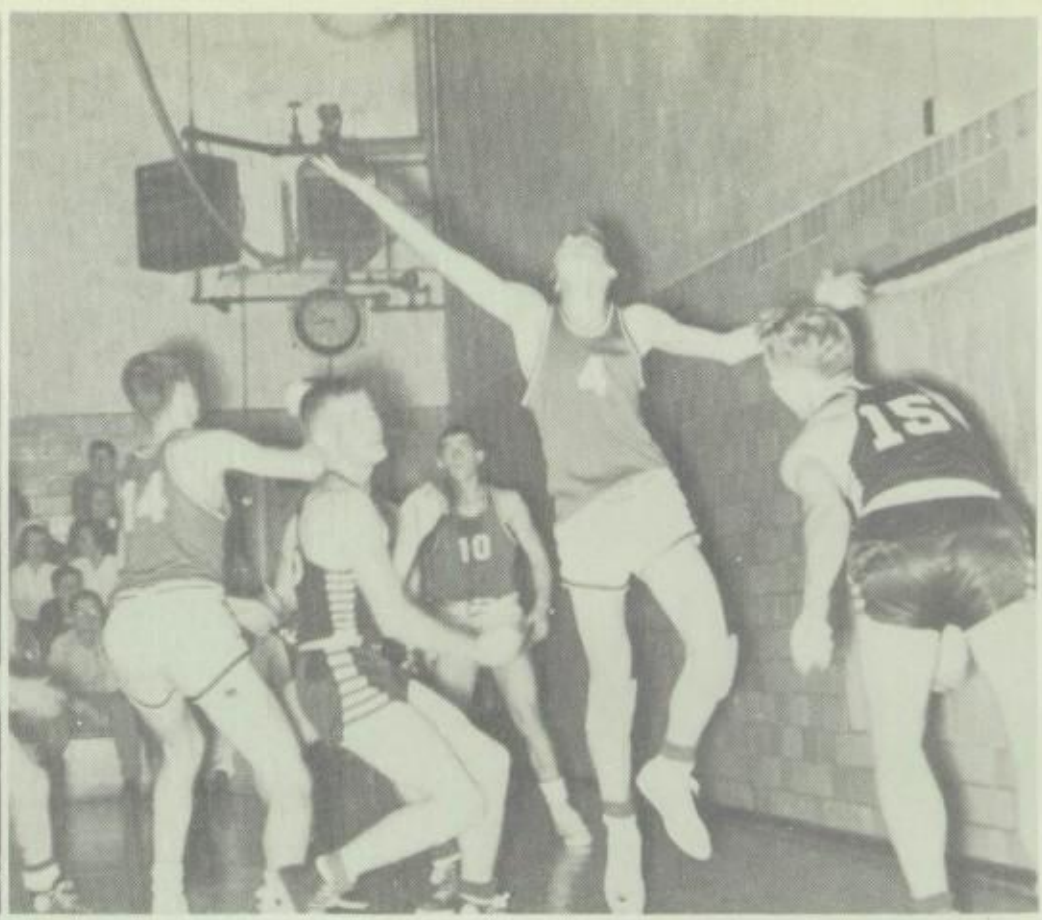

The election of a queen by the students and the huge Pep Rally marked the beginning of the biggest Fall Festival of all. School was dismissed at 3 p. m. and the classes and organizations participated in a Homecoming Parade.

The game was a series of sensational plays on the part of the Bulldogs and a shocked, desperate effort to regain prestige for the Cowboys. In the last 4 minutes of play, Tony sent in his second string, much to the embarrassment of the Clarion muscle-men. The crowd howled while a 119 lb. Freshman, Bill Lampright, smeared a big Clarion Cowboy behind the line of scrimmage. Their tempers boiling, the Cowboys bowled over the Freshman line to chalk up their only TD of the night. The crowd's cheers, however, were for the little fellows who tried so valiantly to hold them back, the little guys like Phil McVeigh, who, in Tony's own words, "weighed only 90 lbs. soaking wet." A big dance climaxed the end of a very successful Homecoming for the Bulldogs and their friends.

A'Capella Choir

Due to the untiring efforts of our new director, Harold Weber, music has assumed new importance and prestige. His excellent taste in music suited to high school students and his ability to get the very best each vocalist has to offer have made our vocal concerts the toast of the town. While the boys and girls work harder than they ever did before, they still find time to indulge in a lot of pranks and local customs . . . Ted and Pete, who probably intend to become census-takers in the near future, spent one whole period counting the holes in the ceiling of the auditorium, total: 191,000,000 . . . Betty Ann and Harriette are still the only sopranos brave enough to venture above high C without a guide . . . that little burst of applause isn't for Mr. Weber, the basses just wanted Iris to know she couldn't sneak in late again . . . we don't know what Virginia Fristedt and Dolores Jensen would do if Helen Lenz didn't bring them candy every day . . . Dick Samp is getting fairly deadly with that hat pin of his, just ask the girls who have to walk in front of him . . . and Nancy and Marilynne are still complaining about the lack of male tenors, they would much prefer to sing with the girls for a change.

J. Allen, D. Collins, T. Hutchison, L. Wolcott, E. Laing, R. Tuttle, P. Bowman, J. Beamish, N. McAlpine, H. Lenz, E. Bowman, Mr. Weber, J. Sharp, H. Brown, K. Curtis, M. PeCoy, I. Lieb.

Madrigal

The object of this group, it seems, is to sing exactly opposite from your neighbor, or in musical terms, counterpoint. Lots of practice goes into something of this sort, but the result is the same as any other musical group, harmony of voice and spirit.

L'Allegro Club

The L'Allegro Club is a select group of 28 girls chosen for their ability and interest in music. They meet on Monday and Thursday, working on almost any type of music from 15th Century arrangements to Cole Porter numbers. Juniors and Seniors usually enjoy a priority, but there are several outstanding underclassmen who will be ready to fill in the vacancies next year and carry on the tradition of this group.

Quartet

The ever popular barbershop harmony of these four boys has placed them high on the list of favorite performers. Their animated renditions of favorite folk songs have made them famous, and are guaranteed to get an encore every time. With Mr. Weber at the piano, and sometimes in the ranks when one of the favored four is sick, the boys steal the show. Reading from top to bottom we have first tenor, Dale Collins, an old-timer from way back; second tenor, Ron Hutchings, who could double as Danny Kaye any time; baritone, Ron Peterson, the boy who isn't there due to Mr. Weber's confusion of names; and last, but certainly not least, our bass, Larry Wolcott. Larry is the only one of the four who won't be lost through graduation. A newcomer to the group, he not only filled his predecessors' shoes, he needed larger ones.

B A N D

The Golden Years are here for Concert Band. Mr. Guster's intensive primary-grade program is beginning to prove that "Start Them Young" pays off in experienced musicians early in high school.

Rehearsals and concerts, though quite serene and calm, held a few humorous moments. Despite earnest efforts on the part of R. C. G., the trombone players persisted in "Woodshedding" (a Gusterism) in unguarded moments, much to the hilarity of the other members. Recalled: Ron rhymes with Moan and Trombone; bird imitations by Bill Hutchison during the Viennese Waltz; Dick Samp and Dave Vaughn putting the "button" on the end of a stirring march; the loose thread on Claudia's bow cavorting gaily in her face during a strained encounter with the bass fiddle; "Chuck" running the gauntlet of horn cases, music stands and musicians to the baritone section when the bus was late; Larry Wolcott's scarred bassoon, veteran of many years in close proximity with Doc's flailing baton. Ah, yes, we wouldn't miss band for anything!
